- The audience for this document is employers who are seeking to better understand the difference between isolation and quarantine, and how Isolation and Quarantine Orders, issued by MCDPH, impact their workforce.
- Please note that this workflow is intended to document the general community standard. In some cases, such with healthcare workers, EMTs, and police officers, industry-specific standards have been issued, which may differ from the information presented below.

Isolation Workflow: Isolation is the procedure that must be followed for all Covid+ individuals, with or without symptoms. It can begin with either COVID symptoms, or a COVID + test (as described in the workflow)

Quarantine Workflow: Quarantine is required for those with known exposure to COVID-19, but who remain asymptomatic. The quarantine workflow begins with a known exposure to COVID-19, but the absence of COVID-19 symptoms.
